cunto is a fundamental word in Spanish that serves as both an interrogative adjective and adverb, used to ask about quantities, prices, or express intensity. Pronounced as "kwan-toh," it can be used to inquire about the price or cost of something, such as "Cunto cuesta el boleto?" (How much does the ticket cost?). Cunto also appears in common phrases like "Cunto tiempo?" (How long?) and "Cuntas personas hay?" (How many people are there?). As an adverb, it can express intensity or degree, as seen in examples like "Cunto talento tienes!" (How talented you are!). Understanding the various contexts and expressions of cunto is essential for mastering this fundamental word and engaging in meaningful conversations with Spanish speakers.paraphrased text here
